

CUFF: Oi, where's my tea?

HELMET: Sorry, they said they were out of milk.

CUFF: What, nothing? Semi Skimmed? Full fat? That watery red top rubbish?

BILLY: I might be able to help you out there. We have suddenly found ourselves in the Milk business. By this afternoon we will have milk by the bucket load, fresh and creamy and ready to sell.

CUFF: Milk eh? Well have you got a licence to sell milk?

BILLY: A milk licence? Erm, no, I don't think so.

CUFF: Have you heard this Helmet? He's trying to sell milk without a milk licence.

HELMET: No milk licence? How dairy... Get it? Dairy, like milk, dairy... dairy... I'll shut up now shall I?

BILLY: Well, how do you get a milk licence?

HELMET: You have to pass an exam.

CUFF: Just so happens, we happen to have the questions just here.

BILLY: Oh, that's fortunate isn't it. Rightyho, fire away.

We hear the theme from mastermind. BILLY is suddenly in a spotlight.

CUFF: Question 1 - How do you know when your yoghurt is haunted?

BILLY: You get Paranormal Activia

HELMET: Why shouldn't you keep cows in your attic?

BILLY: Because the steaks are far too high

CUFF: How do you make sure your milk isn't spoiled

BILLY: You don't give it all its own way.

HELMET: Why shouldn't you make jokes about cheddar?

BILLY: They're far too cheesy

CUFF: Why do cows...

We hear the mastermind time out buzzer.

CUFF: I've started so I'll finish, why do cows have hooves instead of feet?

BILLY: Because they Lack Toes!

CUFF: Billy at the end of that round, you have five correct answers with no passes. Congratulations, you've just won a milk licence!

We hear celebration music; HELMET presents BILLY with an overly large board (like a giant cheque) They shake hands and pat each other on the back. It all gets a little too much for CUFF.

The music stops.

Don't milk it... Now go on Billy, on your way.
